Johnson's (Guaranteed) Carbon Remover

A Harmless Liquid

Johnson's Carbon Remover is a harmless liquid. It contains no acids and does not affect lubrication in any way or interfere with the oil in the crank case. Has no action on any metal.

Four ounces of Johnson's Carbon Remover added to ten gallons of gasoline will greatly increase your power and mileage and minimize carbon formation.

Use It Every 1,000 Miles

If you will use Johnson's Carbon Remover at regular intervals, giving carbon no chance to accumulate, you will automatically eliminate most valve trouble and your engine will always be at its highest efficiency.

Ordinarily one application of Johnson's Carbon Remover is all that is necessary, but for very heavy carbon deposits a second application is advised.

The Die Is Cast.

The adoption of the war resolution by the House of Representatives was never doubtful. Despite all the opposition that cowards and Germanophiles could muster, only a corporal's guard carried their un-Americanism to the point of an adverse vote. The final passage was by a division of almost eight to one.

In the declaration of war, the will and desire of the vast majority of citizens is realized, the will of right to one at the very lowest estimate. No one has desired this war. All good citizens lament the necessity for it. We deplore the breach in our old friendship with the German people. We are saddened by the shadow of death and suffering which this morning's rising sun casts over the land. We are not indifferent to the material losses involved. We appreciate the impairment of progress which must result from the diversion of the national energies into a single and unproductive channel.

But there is something higher and more compelling than all these considerations. "Right is more precious than peace." There is nothing so much to be dreaded as loss of independence, enslavement of will and sacrifice of honor. Casting up the balance between peace and submission on the one hand and war with preservation of our national ideals on the other, there is no room for doubt or hesitation. We could do no otherwise than accept the temporary evil for the sake of the ultimate good, and so, trusting in the justice of God, we accept the gage of battle that Germany has thrown down to us. May we prove worthy as a nation of the great cause we have espoused—worthy in skill, in courage, in the spirit of sacrifice and in humane use of the success to which we consecrate our means and our efforts.

As for the handful of weak and wicked men who prefer the path of easy dishonor, we leave them to the contempt of their contemporaries and the judgment of history.—New York Evening Sun.

The past few days of outdoor practice has improved the Tufts baseball squad greatly, but the jinx seems to be on their trail this spring. The first hitch which occurred was the loss of Dave Keefe, the former Goddard player, who joined the Mackmen; and of late there are several men on the team who have been dropped out of the squad because their marks were low in their studies. The men who are left in the squad, however, are displaying that "can't be beaten" stuff, and Coach Slatery still holds that a great team will represent the Medford college when their season opens.
